Welcome to Road Runners! Discover a wide selection of unique, new-to-market brands and products to elevate your store. Our team is ready to help you find the perfect gift, home, paper, fashion, fragrance and personal care products to delight your customers – WE HAVE IT ALL! in one easy shopping experience. PPP members enjoy complimentary beverages, coffee, and light snacks while shopping.

Your Summer Market Game Plan:

10 Ways to Shop Smart, Save Big & Build Community

Gift markets aren't just about stocking shelves—they're about unlocking opportunity, building community, and finding the products that define your shop's next chapter. Whether you're a first-time attendee or a market-seasoned buyer, these top tips will help you show up prepared, focused, and ready to make every square foot count.

1. PRE-PLAN LIKE A PRO

Before your shoes even hit the showroom floor, map it out. Review the vendor list, mark your must-visits, and give yourself time for both structure and spontaneity. PPP Vendors and Showrooms offering market-only deals and seasonal discounts should be at the top of your route.

2. DEFINE YOUR PURPOSE & GENERATE BUZZ

Are you curating a seasonal vibe? Filling gaps in bestsellers? Looking to wow your customers with something unexpected? As you go, take short videos in front of booths or displays you'll be ordering from—post them on your store's social channels to build anticipation and keep your audience engaged.

3. BUDGET WITH FLEXIBILITY

Go in with a plan, but give yourself room to pivot. Know what you want to spend overall and what's non-negotiable, but leave space for that showstopper product you didn't expect to find. PPP discounts can help stretch your dollars even further.

4. BOOK APPOINTMENTS EARLY

If a vendor is on your "don't miss" list, get on their calendar. Scheduled appointments save you time, help you avoid waiting, and often lead to deeper conversations—or surprise specials you didn't know were on the table.

5. PRIORITIZE COMFORT

Markets are a marathon, not a sprint. Comfortable shoes are a must. Wear layers so you're ready for chilly showrooms and packed halls, and keep your hands free with a crossbody or backpack. Small choices = big energy.

6. PACK THE ESSENTIALS

Bring a light bag with everything you need: a water bottle, snacks, notebook or tablet, pens, business cards, a portable charger, and maybe a collapsible tote for catalogs or samples. The right tools help you stay focused, not frazzled.

7. TAKE PHOTOS THAT WORK FOR YOU

You'll see hundreds of products—capture the ones that matter. Photograph booth signs, product displays, and order sheets. Add quick voice memos or captions so you remember why you loved something when you're reviewing later.

8. MAKE SPACE FOR REAL CONNECTION

Markets are more than transactions—they're community. Chat with vendors, ask questions, and introduce yourself. Relationships you build here can lead to better service, sneak previews, or even custom opportunities down the road.

9. REVIEW AND RESET EACH NIGHT

After the show each day, take 15–20 minutes to go through your notes and photos. What stood out? What's worth circling back to? A quick reset helps you start fresh the next day—and keeps your buying aligned with your goals.

10. FOLLOW UP BEFORE THE BUZZ FADES

When you're back home, don't wait. Place orders, confirm discounts, and reach out to vendors you connected with. Prompt follow-ups keep the momentum going—and help ensure the terms you discussed stick.

Final Thought:

Markets are where purpose meets possibility. Go in curious, shop with intention, and leave knowing you've made moves that matter—for your store, your customers, and your community.
